Lord and Lady Curzon, Mounted on the Sacred Elephant and Followed by Princes and Rajahs, Open the Celebration.

GREAT SPLENDOR AT DELHI.

Gen. Kitchener, Attended by the Heads of States, Takes Part with the Representatives of the King of England.

DELHI, India, Dec. 29 .- The Viceroy Lord Curzon, of Kedleston, made his state entry this morning into the capital of the Moguls. This constituted the official opening of the Durbar held to celebrate the accession of King Edward as Emperor of India.

It was a splendid pageant, probably unparalleled in its magnificence. At the head of the elephant procession rode Lord and Lady Curzon on the state Grand Tusker. 12 feet high, the largest elephant in India. Their howdah was decked with gold and silver, and the elepount itself was almost hidden beneath a gold-worked saddle cloth. Surrounding them were footmen in scarlet and gold liveries and bearing massive silver The Duke of Connaught, who retainers of the ruling chiefs.

The colossal beasts all saluted by frumpeting and throwing their trunke in the air, presently a truly imposing sight, and afterward fell in line behind the official procession, as the cavalcade traversed the broad road leading to the Jumma Musjid mosque, with its white mes and gilded minarets gleaming in the sunlight.

Huge crowds of onlookers witnessed the spectacle, which, it is claimed, has been surpassed in magnificence even in this country of Oriental splen

The heralds, pursuivants and trumpeters who followed the escort and immediately preceded the viceregal procession were conspicuous by the splendor and decorations. The excitement was at fever heat as the first elephants with gold and silver howdahs, of the staff officers, came in the mosque. The finest elephants in Asia passed in front of the great Jumma Musjid, the steps of which were thronged with distinguished personages, including the Viceroy's American and British guests and the delegates from the colonies and from other parts of the

The enormous animals shuffled slowly by, many of the massive howdahs of quaint and rich design being surmounted by magnificent canopies of gold-emrojdered and bejewelled tapestry.

The bodies of the animals were al-most hidden by their trappings of crimson, purple and gold. Bands of gold encircled their tusks, golden pracelets were on their ankles, gold and silver bells were hanging from their neck-chains and their heads were painted and decorated in every conceivable color. The Mahouts (elephant drivers) were clad in the brightest attire, as were the attendant spearsmen, who marched by the elephants' sides. Kitchener in the Rear.

the rear of the procession rode Lord Kitchener, the Commander-hief in India, surrounded by a liant staff and followed by the heads the provinces, with escorts of Indian cavalry and tribal leaders from beyond ine border line.

Down the main street moved the cortexe, through lines of saluting soldiers and excited, surging, salaaming throngs of natives; through lines of saluting soldiers and excited, surging, salaaming throngs of natives; through this ancient city, with the balconies and housetops teeming with life, and through the moree gate into the open park beyond. There, after a four-mile march, the elephants of the Viceroy and the Duke of Connaught halted side by side, and the pageant was concluded with the great princes filing by, their elephants trumbeting a salute.
